

HEDSup

Healthcare Educators Development for Simulation

What is HEDSup?

HEDSup is a 2 day simulation faculty training course delivered by Health Education England West Midlands. The objective of the course is to support multidisciplinary members of staff in their wish to deliver simulation based teaching, developing a region wide faculty of simulation teachers who are speaking the same language, debriefing in recognised formats and sharing

Do I need to know how to teach using simulation already?

The course will be of value to novice simulation teachers and experts alike. We aim to equip those new to simulation teaching with the knowledge, skills and confidence to begin practice and for the more experienced teachers we aim to ensure a common level of knowledge and approach to simulation across the region.

Where and When are the Courses?

23rd / 24th November 2016

Worcs Cricket Club

30th November / 1st December 2016

The Village Hotel, Dudley

11th / 12th January 2017

Moat House Hotel, Staffs

25th / 26th January 2017

IET Birmingham Austin Court

22nd / 23rd February 2017

IET Birmingham Austin Court

There will be pre course modules and face to face teaching on adult learning theory, human factors and non technical skills, scenario design and debriefing techniques.

For more details see the course website:

<http://learning.wm.hee.nhs.uk/node/866>

There is no charge for the course

Course organisers: Dr Nicky Calthorpe & Dr Richard Morse

If you're interested in attending please e mail: medicalsimulation@wm.hee.nhs.uk

Developing people for health and healthcare

Talk to us via twitter: @heewm_sim #HEDSup

